Contract Archaeology, Summary

Served as Principal Investigator within the regulatory context for more than 2000 cultural resources projects, including both large and small archaeological projects as well as complex interdisciplinary studies that encompassed prehistoric and historic archaeology, history, and ethnography. Served as Principal Investigator on contracts with Federal agencies, including, but not limited to, the Bureau of Indian Affairs, Bureau of Land Management, Army Corps of Engineers, Federal Highways Administration, National Park Service, and the U.S. Forest Service; with State agencies, including, but not limited to, the Department of Water Resources, Department of Transportation, Department of Parks and Recreation, and State Lands Commission; with County and Municipal agencies throughout northern California; and with private entities. Larger projects have ranged in size from $30,000 for California Department of Transportation to more than $2.75 million for the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers. From 1973 through 1993, have been responsible for the administration of more than $12 million for cultural resources projects conducted under regulatory requirements.

Have been responsible for project design and implementation, budget development, program management, supervision of field and office staff, and other administrative activities. Have conducted archaeological survey and reconnaissance, site significance evaluations, archaeological data recovery, data analysis, and report writing; have developed archaeological management plans; has been responsible for and carried out studies of archaeological collections related to Native American Graves Protection and Repatriation Act obligations.

Have authored more than 200 archaeological reports (and scores of brief letter reports) and co-authored more than 200 archaeological and cultural resources reports, including ones treating major surveys, archaeological excavation, significance evaluation, and data recovery. For the most part these reports remain as unpublished manuscripts (not included in this resume); copies have been filed with the California Archaeological Inventory.
